2/24/2021 - 16 birders met at Oakland Nature Preserve at 8:00am. Group tallied 37 species. Not every birder saw every species.

Recent reports of Yellow-breasted Chat enticed us to walk the RED trail for a possible sighting. We listened and searched but could not find it.

Some of our sightings: Pileated Woodpecker, perched Purple Martins, American Goldfinch, Baltimore Oriole - very brief sighting, Chipping Sparrows, Ruby-throated Hummingbird, White-eyed Vireo.

Warblers: Black-and-White, Orange-crowned, Northern Parula, Pine. Palm, and Yellow-rumped.

A few birders walked out to Lake Apopka via the boardwalk adding Caspian Tern

If I have missed anything email me so I can add it to our list.

I misidentified the perched Black Vultures in tree as Turkey Vultures. Black Vultures are on our list.

(I, truthfully, didn't look at them very carefully)

Thank you everyone for coming, helping to spot birds, and enjoying a beautiful day and venue.

Thank you for masking.
