[the-village-birders] Mead Gardens' walk 10/3

The Village Birders had a really incredible day at Mead Gardens yesterday. I think that our list of 38 species tops almost any of our previous walk reports.

We saw and heard many birds while walking through the picnic area. With ongoing construction in the park our detour took us to a spot locally called Cici's Pond.

I recognized some Orange Audubon members very focused on the trees across the "pond".

Of course we joined them and finally got our eyes on a beautiful Golden-Winged Warbler. (photo below by Dariel)

Acadian Flycatcher, Eastern Wood-Pewee, American Redstart, Black-and-White Warblers were seen.

We FINALLY, reached our target birding area, known as Warbler's Corner. It was very exciting! Chestnut-sided, Black-throated Blue, Yellow-throated Warblers.

We ended the day at the picnic tables going over our pictures.

We tallied 11 Warbler species:

Golden-Winged
Magnolia
Black-throated Blue
American Redstart
Black-and-White
Chestnut-sided
Yellow-throated
Pine
Palm
Common Yellowthroat
Northern Parula
