[the-village-birders] Cedar Key Bird Walk 10-28-22

Kind of a slow day at Cedar Key but 15 birders made their way around this great birding spot. This was the lowest tide I have ever seen there. There was a guy who had walked out to the middle, of what should be water, at the boat launch at Shell Mound. I think that with such a low tide the birds might have been way out feeding on newly exposed mud. So SSar out we couldn't see them. Thanks to Paul for the great pictures and leading on the boardwalk while I did the Cemetery. Hope you all had a great day.

CHECKLIST OF TODAY'S BIRDS ATTACHED (56 species)

Stop, Look and Listen,
